If you have a pet, send the kid off with a framed photo of it. A small photo album of family/friend pictures can not only stave off homesickness, but also be a conversation starter — something that helps your kid get to know other kids. Before you send food of any kind, make sure you understand the camp's policy about treats from home. To be safe and to make it more likely that your kid will be able to share the food, don't use any nut products — particularly peanuts.

Summer at West Side camps offer parents eight weeks of camp with full and half-day options. Parents may choose a few weeks, a full summer program or something in between. Programs are open to all children 13 months through grade 6. Limited space is available for toddlers through age 3. Toledo Campus is partnering with St. James Club this year for additional exciting camp options. Counselor-in-training classes for high school juniors and seniors are also available. West Side camps provide amazing teachers, outstanding programs, and flexible scheduling.
